

Five Things to Do

at Kalbarri National Park

Learn about Kalbarri on Meanarra Hill

The Meanarra Hill Lookout walk is a great way to learn about the connections between people and the surrounding country, while taking in some beautiful views!

Before your journey begins, listen to a Welcome to Country at the interpretive signage in the car park. As you venture on, you'll learn about the people, nature and history of the area.

Try this walk in the evening to beat the heat and enjoy a sunset over the Indian Ocean. The path is sealed and can be accessed by wheelchair users; however assistance may be required due to the incline of the path. Click here for more information about this trail.

Picnic at Hawks Head

If you're in need of a beautiful place to rest and enjoy a bite to eat, stop in at Hawks Head. Here, you'll find a shaded picnic table set amongst some trees, as well as an accessible toilet.

Once you're feeling refreshed, head down the path (wheelchair accessible) to the Hawks Head Lookout, which offers a wonderful view of the Murchison River flowing through the gorge below.

It's also the best spot for viewing rock wallabies – they can be seen most days by the large boulder on the river's edge, so make sure you bring your binoculars!

Explore Z Bend

The name 'Z Bend' comes from the Murchison River that has created – you guessed it – a Z shape between the gorges!

There are plenty of ways to explore this section of the park – the walk to the Z Bend Lookout is about one (1) kilometre and takes explorers down some stairs to a lookout on the edge of the gorge.

From here, you can return to the car park, or continue on the Z Bend River Trail. For more adventurous hikers, the trail leads down into the gorge, over boulders and down ladders, to a scenic spot along the Murchison River.

Walk from Natural Bridge to Island Rock

Part of the longer Bigurda Trail, the walk from Natural Bridge to Island Rock is 1.8 kilometres of sealed path and boardwalk along Kalbarri's coastal cliffs.

With uninterrupted ocean views for the entire walk, and spectacular rock formations and lookouts featured at points along the cliffs, this will be a walk to remember.

Keep an eye on the ocean for whales between June and November, and appreciate the unique coastal flora of the area.

This part of the trail is accessible for prams and wheelchair users; however assistance may be required due to the changes in elevation. Click here for more information about this trail.

See the view from the Kalbarri Skywalk

The Kalbarri Skywalk offers the breathtaking experience of viewing the Kalbarri landscape from 100 metres above, seemingly in mid-air!

There are two viewing platforms available that overhang the gorge and Murchison River below. Be sure to hold onto your hat – it can get windy up here!

The Skywalk area is completely accessible and also features interpretive signage, animal sculptures and a kiosk.
